GAME PREVIEW JETS VS. RAVENS

WEEK 12 | SUNDAY, NOV. 23, 2025

CB Nate Wiggins

QUOTH THE RAVEN

"Wherever Kyle Hamilton is on the field, he's a first-tier force multiplier, and that's just not something you can say about most players throughout pro football history, even the truly great ones. Hamilton's greatness lies in the fact that he's a Pro Bowl-level player in so many spots, and when you put it all together, you have a valuable and versatile defender the likes of which no other team has."

— Athlon Sports' Doug Farrar
on S Kyle Hamilton

Riding a four-game winning streak, including three straight on the road, the Baltimore Ravens (5-5) host the New York Jets (2-8) at M&T Bank Stadium today. This contest begins a three-game home stretch (also Bengals on Thanksgiving Night & Steelers on Dec. 7) for Baltimore, which stands one game behind 6-4 Pittsburgh in the AFC North standings.

The Ravens are 10-2 all time vs. NYJ, including a 6-0 mark in Baltimore. Head coach John Harbaugh owns a 5-1 mark against the Jets (3-0 at home), with these teams last meeting in Week 1 of 2022, when Baltimore prevailed, 24-9, at MetLife Stadium.

Harbaugh (18th season) is the NFL's second-longest-tenured head coach (Mike Tomlin - 19), with his 190 total wins ranking as the 13th most by a HC in NFL history. Harbaugh has led Baltimore to 12 playoff berths in the past 17 seasons and to six postseason appearances in the last seven years (including three straight).

With two-time league MVP QB Lamar Jackson as its starter, the Ravens own a 74-27 regular season record, making his .733 winning % the fourth-best mark by a QB in NFL history. In 2025, Jackson's 115.5 rating ranks No. 1 in the NFL, as he's passed for 15 TDs and just 3 INTs in seven games played.

Last Sunday at Cleveland, Baltimore rallied to earn a thrilling 23-16 divisional win. Behind a smothering defense that allowed just 187 total yards and held the Browns to 2-of-14 on third down, the Ravens recorded 3 sacks (S Kyle Hamilton, CB Keyon Martin & OLB Kyle Van Noy), 10 QB

NUMBERS TO NOTE

703 Receiving yards by WR Zay Flowers, who ranks 13th in the NFL. Flowers is on pace to record 1,195 yards this season.

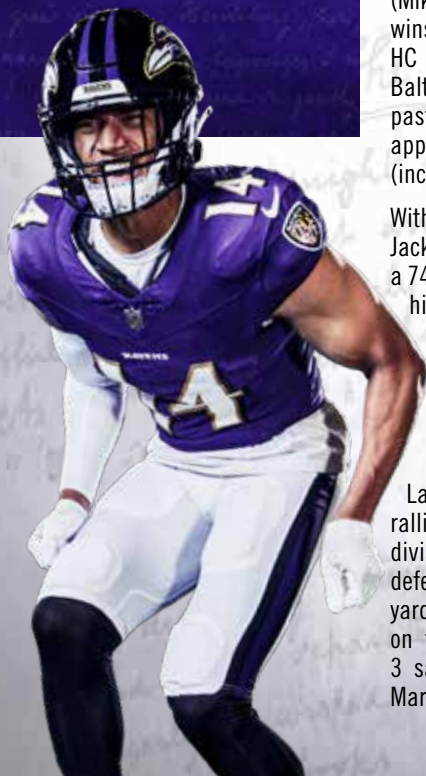

102.8 Career passer rating for QB Lamar Jackson, which is the best figure in NFL history. Since last season (past 24 games), Jackson has thrown 56 TDs & 7 INTs, producing a 118.5 rating.

4 Receptions needed by TE Mark Andrews (468) to become the Ravens' all-time leader. Andrews already has the most receiving yards (5,806) and receiving TDs (56) in Ravens history.

83 Rushing yards needed by RB Derrick Henry (12,230) to eclipse HOFer Jim Brown (12,312) for 11th on the NFL's all-time list. Henry (12,230) currently is at No. 15, but is close to passing three other HOFers (Marcus Allen - 12,243, Edgerrin James - 12,246 and Marshall Faulk - 12,279) on the list.

.714 NFL-best win percentage (50-20) in the month of November by the Ravens under John Harbaugh (2008-25). Baltimore (29-7) is also No. 1 in the league in November home games since '08.

hits, 9 PD and 1 INT (CB Nate Wiggins). Baltimore rushed for 184 yards, including 103 by RB Derrick Henry and the game-winning 35-yard TD scamper (on fourth-and-1) by TE Mark Andrews late in the fourth quarter.

RONNIE STANLEY:

TRENCHES

by Spencer Krock

"The true test of a man's character is what he does when no one is watching," legendary basketball coach John Wooden once stated. For first-team All-Pro and two-time Pro Bowl tackle Ronnie Stanley — who is the longest-tenured Raven in the midst of his 10th NFL season — the quiet, unseen moments at the end of practice define not just his performance on gameday, but his legacy in the trenches.

After the practice whistles stop and most teammates head for the locker room, the Ravens' offensive line, typically under the direction of Stanley, remains on the Under Armour Performance Center fields, teaching technique, reinforcing fundamentals and sharpening a unit charged with doing the most thankless job in football.

From the moment the Ravens selected him sixth overall in 2016, Stanley represented promise at a position that once featured the franchise's inaugural draft pick and Hall of Fame inductee in Jonathan Ogden. Stanley arrived from Notre Dame with the physical tools and mental acuity to anchor one of the game's most critical spots, but promise alone doesn't build dominance. What separates Stanley is the consistent, rigorous work that happens beyond the glare of cameras. His introductory rookie press conference captured it cleanly: "I don't really feel it. I definitely just come out and just work hard," Stanley described.

Over the years, injuries threatened to derail what had become one of the league's most dependable left tackles. Yet, Stanley's comeback from a major ankle injury — and a subsequent 2024 season in which he started every game, earned Pro Bowl honors and blocked for a Baltimore attack that produced arguably the best offense in franchise history — reinforced that his resilience matches his talent.

Now, as the elder statesman of an offensive line that includes three starters with under three years of NFL experience and an average age of 25, Stanley's role is doubled: protect two-time MVP quarterback Lamar Jackson and aid in developing and leading players such as second-year starting right tackle Roger Rosengarten and rookie fifth-round draft pick Carson Vinson.

"Ronnie is a perfectionist, and that's what it takes," Vinson described. "The difference between a great player in this league and an average player is the small details, and that's really what he preaches."

In the sweltering heat of training camp or under the glare of stadium lights, the on-field reps tell part of the story. But after practice? That's when Stanley flips a switch. He and the rest of the Ravens' O-linemen stick around with exhausted legs and fatigued minds, drilling slow, controlled technique while they're most tired and vulnerable. That dedication doesn't show up in highlight reels, but it pays off in the low-visibility moments when Jackson senses pressure coming and steps up in the pocket anyway.

Stanley's quiet leadership is reshaping the Ravens' offensive line culture. With multiple young players around him, he has embraced the role of teacher and mentor. His job includes not only protecting Jackson's blind side, but it also involves creating a structure and an identity for the youthfully-talented unit.

"I'm very confident. The sky is the limit on what this team can do," Stanley proclaimed. We can do everything we want to do and more, and I feel like we are very capable, and we have the people to do it."

Why does this matter? The offensive line is often invisible to the casual fan, yet its breakdowns are glaring to the quarterback. Left tackle is one of the highest-stakes positions on the field; a lapse there can transform a drive in seconds. Stanley's work, especially when others aren't watching, gives the Ravens a chance for consistency in an area where chaos thrives.

For Ronnie Stanley, the true test isn't only the next snap, it's the hours he spends after practice, the reinforcement he offers to rookies and vets alike or the repeat of a foot shuffle that looks tame but matters deeply. It's what he does when no one is watching. And maybe that's why, when everyone is watching, he's ready.

CB CHIDOB E AWUZIE EVERMORE

Chidobe Awuzie, a 2017 second-round draft choice and Bay Area native, joined the Ravens in 2025 as a cover corner with experience defending the NFL's top wideouts. The former Colorado Buffalo is in his ninth NFL season, appearing in 102 games (86 starts) with 421 tackles (304 solo), 7 INTs, 71 PD, 5 FFs, 3 FRs, 2 QBHs and 7 TFL. Get to know more about him below:

Who is your role model and why?

My role model in life has to be my dad. He set such a great example for me of how to be a family-oriented man and be a man who has faith in God. He also inspires me because of how he treats people. He's still a manly man, but he has a very sweet and kind of heart. I definitely strive to be like him.

If you could give rookie "Chido" advice, what would it be?

I would tell him to stop playing video games so much. (laughter) I loved watching film, but I didn't really understand what I was watching. So, I would tell him to lean on some of the older guys a little bit more, just to kind of learn how to watch film and prepare for a game. Back then, I had the will to do it, I just didn't know how to.

Do you have any pre-game rituals?

Yes. My grandma made a song for me, and I listen to it every gameday. I just gets my spirit in control, and I get that pumped up feeling whenever I listen to it. Also, I always call my dad in the locker room before we go out, and he and I go through affirmations. And then, I usually scroll through a family photo album. Looking at my family helps to motivate me before games. I just make sure my spirit is in the right place so that I am ready to go.

You're a very fashionable guy. How did you get into fashion, and who is your fashion inspiration?

My fashion inspiration is probably my mom. I remember growing up going to parties and all my aunts and uncles would always just dress so nice. And then when I got to the league, the first time I put on some traditional Nigerian clothing, people were asking me where I got it from, and I was just like, "My mom got it for me." From there, I started making clothes for people. I feel like now, it's not really about what you wear, it's about how you present yourself. It doesn't have to be the most expensive thing, but if you feel good in it, and you're confident, then you'll look good. That's my perspective on personal style.

What does it mean to you to be a strong representation for the Nigerian culture in the NFL?

It means everything. Any opportunity that comes to my lane to highlight or represent the Nigerian culture, I try to do it. I know once I am done playing football, whenever that is, it will be a big goal of mine to help out more in Nigeria. I love what the NFL is doing with the International Player Pathway Program (IPPP). We have a few people on our roster from that program, C.J. Okoye, who has been playing big snaps for us and also David Olajiga. It's really exciting to see my people being represented so well here.

How did you get into playing chess? And have you played against any of your Ravens teammates?

I have played all of my Ravens teammates, and none of them have beat me yet. (laughter) Chess is a great game for anyone to play. When I started playing, I didn't know how big it was. People at any age can play and be good at it, and you don't have to have any athletic ability. My brother taught me how to play when I was younger. I usually play about 3-4 games a day. And when I was on the Cowboys, Amari Cooper and I used to play all the time. He actually helped start an annual chess tournament for NFL players, and I won the first one. Chess has just given me so many opportunities to meet different people and help impact kids. I am actually hoping to do something surrounding chess in Nigeria next year. It has been such a blessing to me.

COMMUNITY SHOWCASE ON RAVENSWALK

Today's Community Showcase featured College Track. For more information on the organization, please visit: collegetrack.org

On Nov. 10, the Ravens partnered with Government Employees Health Association, Inc. ("G.E.H.A.") to host their annual Youth Football and Military Combine at Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium in Annapolis.

SALUTE TO SERVICE EFFORTS

To celebrate the NFL's Salute to Service (STS) initiative, the Ravens host various events and programs throughout the year to honor veterans, military members and their families.

On Nov. 10, the Baltimore Ravens partnered with Government Employees Health Association, Inc. ("G.E.H.A.") to host their annual Youth Football and Military Combine at Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium in Annapolis. Ravens Legends along with current players S Keondre Jackson, CB Marquise Robinson and ILB Trenton Simpson were on hand to participate in activities and lead the 150 youth participants through football drills with a military twist.

ILB Trenton Simpson (above) was also recognized as the Ravens nominee for the NFL's Salute to Service Award. Inspired by his father, Command Sgt. Maj. Timothy D. Simpson, a decorated U.S. Army Ranger who completed 17 overseas tours, Simpson started his Trenton Simpson Foundation to support children and families of active-duty and retired service members. The foundation offers youth camps, mentorship and gameday experiences and partnered with T.A.P.S. and Blue Star Families to host guests at Training Camp this year. To vote for Simpson for the Salute to Service Award, scan the QR code.

IN OUR COMMUNITY

6/14 The Ravens hosted their second annual Fishing with the Vets event in June. C Tyler Linderbaum, TE Charlie Kolar and G Andrew Vorhees joined 10 veterans for an afternoon of fishing on the Chesapeake Bay.

7/15 To celebrate the U.S. Army's 250th birthday, the Baltimore Ravens and Washington Commanders hosted a youth football clinic for 200 military children on base at Fort George G. Meade. Ravens Legends, including Bryan Hall (above), were on hand to lead the clinic.

10/11 The Baltimore Ravens, Coca-Cola Consolidated and Operation Homefront joined forces to host a once-in-a-lifetime Star-Spangled Babies shower for 40 pre-registered new and expecting military families at M&T Bank Stadium.

BALTIMORE'S MARCHING RAVENS

PRESENTED BY M&T BANK

Currently in its 78th season of operation, Baltimore's Marching Ravens consists of over 150 musicians, Crew Members, and Staff. On gameday, the Marching Ravens can be found at their pregame concert at Oriole Park, marching down RavensWalk through the tailgate lots, and performing in the stadium throughout gameday. In addition to performing at Ravens home games, the ensemble continues to be deeply involved in the Maryland community, appearing at several parades and events throughout the year. Truly a Maryland tradition and a Pro Football Institution. For information and to schedule an appearance, visit:

BaltimoreRavens.com/MarchingRavens

RISE & CONQUER

The Ravens' live mascots, Rise and Conquer, live in the Animal Embassy at the Maryland Zoo. These important birds aren't able to travel due to a dangerous avian flu. But you can meet other Zoo animals along RavensWalk before each home game. For more information, visit:
